Alma Mater

Nestled in the Cherry Valley
Stands the Buff and Blue.
All her sons and daughters love her
With a love that's true.
Lift the chorus, raise it higher
Loud her praises yield
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater!
Hail, Oh Hail, Winfield!

Foreword

The theme of this yearbook cannot be expressed in one or two words; nor can our sincere gratitude to our teachers. In essence, the theme is us—school being a major contributing factor in the shaping of our academic minds, our opinions, our attitudes, our conduct, and our "hereafter."

To our parents, who have established in us fundamental beliefs, nurtured in us a faith in ourselves and given to us tirelessly, we express our endless thanks.

School is the conglomeration of laughable incidents, mixed feelings before exams, thought-worthy exchanges of ideas in classes, and the approaching excitement of graduation, interwoven with friendships.

And now we leave our Alma Mater as the moldings of two universal teachers: Time and Experience. We leave, we hope, hand-in-hand with Perspective and Worthy Aspiration.

An idea of a new school has grown and developed as we have also done . . . Here they are, those who will in so few years be editing their own yearbooks.

Junior High

Now the horizons widen and grade school suddenly seems childish and far away. New problems with their solutions develop, changes occur and the ultimate goal of being a senior seems impossible.

With all the fun we had, it seemed impossible that we were accomplishing the task of making a yearbook. Mr. Monaco and his camera have added that bit of professional spark and assurance to our group, and we thank him sincerely for his extra interest in our work.

. . . a cheerful remark at the cafeteria lunch line . . . ready help at a catastrophe during a dance . . . a commanding beep of the morning school bus . . . efficiency at the desk . . . and attendance and health carefully attended to . . .

These are just some of the things so readily given by our cafeteria help, janitors, bus-drivers, office staff, and attendance and health officers, respectively. These are the people with whom we come in contact and the people who cushion some of the blows characteristic of our days at school.

Mrs. Rose,

Even as she remembers us with affection, we also remember her. She has been with the school since its founding in 1933, and last year resigned her post as cafeteria head. From the class of 1963, comes warmest wishes to "Daisy," a person whom we shall continue to regard with kindness and respect.

Mrs. Stuart, Miss Kelly

Miss Kelly, this year, leaves her well-kept station in the library for some well-earned relaxation and travel. Having been at West Winfield since '49, Miss Kelly leaves with these words to the students of West Winfield:

"I have enjoyed working with you and hope you all have happy and profitable futures."

Seniors

Now we have come—not to an end—but to a beginning. We now embark from our own small world into worlds unknown to us—not knowing what lies ahead—but filled with hope and high expectation. One last look at us as a group . . .

"Buenos dias"—two words, once strange, now familiar. Breaking the language barrier can be difficult, but in a few short months, Teresa with her laughter and desire to understand and to be understood, has succeeded in both. Teresa, our Foreign Exchange Student from Caracas, Venezuela, brought to us an insight of her life and customs and the colorful music of her native land. She has added many memorable incidents to our Senior year. We can only hope that Teresa has gained as much from us as we have from her, and that she will look back on her year in the United States with happiness.

To Teresa—"Vaya con Dios!"

Graduation time is nearing for us, the class of 1963. The past is full of memories—dances, parties, trips, disappointments, games, homework, concerts, and the great times with our classmates. At the present, we are all uncertain of what lies ahead, but we are trying to make our decisions with an eye on the future. We can never say good-bye to our friends or to our school, but as we set out to explore the new experiences Life holds for us . . . So long.
